Dr hab. Tomasz Justyński

Professor of the Nicolaus Copernicus University in Toruń represented by Ewa Wielińska, attorney

Professor Brian Martin

Humanities and Social Inquiry

University of Wollongong

NSW 2522, Australia

Dear Professor Martin,

acting for and on behalf of Dr hab. Tomasz Justyński, Professor of the Nicolaus Copernicus University in Toruń (power of attorney attached) I hereby request that you, as the publisher of the blog available online: <http://www.bmartin.cc/dissent/documents/wronski/wronski>, delete the blog entry titled "Accusations against a Dean" (available online: <http://www.bmartin.cc/dissent/documents/Wronski/Wronski1307.pdf>) in part or as a whole promptly, but in no event later than 3 days after receiving this summons. In its current form the blog entry infringes my Client's personal rights.

Parts of Marek Wroński's publication, translated by Anna Schneider, contain unambiguous allegations that Dr hab. Tomasz Justyński, professor of the NCU, plagiarised the monograph of Natascha Schulze. These allegations are false and infringe my Client's personal rights. The text on the website is not – contrary to the declarations – a translation of the article published in the Polish monthly "Forum Akademickie". In connection with the abovementioned publication on your blog, Marek Wroński was summoned to remove the effects of the infringement. He assumed his responsibility partially – only the title was adjusted but still at an unsatisfactory level. Moreover, there is still false information in the blog post that the Professor Justyński's monograph is a so-called "professorial book".

I hereby inform you that on the basis of a notification from Professor Dr hab. Wanda Stojanowska there are ongoing proceedings conducted by the Nicolaus Copernicus University's disciplinary ombudsman/prosecutor. Criminal proceedings were also initiated. In none of these proceedings Professor Tomasz Justyński was charged with plagiarism.

Some of the statements published on your website are misleading and expose my client to the loss of that trust which is essential in both scientific and academic work.

If you delete the defamatory publication promptly, my Client will not have any claims against you (as the publisher) linked to the infringement of personal rights.

I look forward to your positive and constructive approach to this problem.

Yours faithfully

Ewa Wielńska
Attorney at law

Dear Ewa Wielinska,

Thanks for your letter of 20 October.

Regarding the highlighted text attached with your letter, could you please tell me which "marked fragments," which you claim do not exist in the Polish version, contain statements that are both false and defamatory? I would appreciate receiving detailed information to justify allegations of falsity and defamatory imputations concerning any such statements you identify.

As I wrote to you before, I am always happy to consider submissions of material, for posting on my website, in response to documents already posted there. You may wish to propose a response to 'Accusations against a dean' for posting.

Dear Professor Martin,
I enclose the text you are expecting with marked fragments, which do not exist in the Polish version. Also unmarked fragments are not the accurate translation of the article published on „Forum Akademickie”.

I uphold the demands contained in the letter of September 12, 2015.

Yours sincerely,
